Scenario 1

Jemma's mom loved to tell others about Jesus. She wanted to tell others about how wonderful a Savior He was and how He died on the cross to save her. At the same time, when she thought about how those who did not have Jesus would suffer eternally in future, she was deeply saddened. So, no matter who she met, she would try to preach to them. She spoke to her neighbors, her family members, and even strangers at the supermarket. Sometimes, the people she spoke to listened and came to church, but even if they didn't, that did not discourage her. She just kept on preaching. Jemma's mom encouraged Jemma to do the same. But Jemma was too nervous and didn't know what to say. Eventually her mother told Jemma that she could first try to preach to at least one person a week. Maybe she wouldn't be able to say much, but at least she could tell them that there is a God who He loves us. Jemma decided to start with her best friend Millie. That morning before she left for school, Jemma prayed to ask God to help her. When she saw Millie at school, Jemma opened her mouth to speak but found her tongue tied in knots, unsure of what to say. Throughout the day, Jemma struggled to say something. At the end of the day, Jemma knew that it was her last chance. She looked at Millie and eventually blurted out, "Do you want to come to church with me on Saturday?"

Millie paused and then said, "OK, what do you do there?"

Jemma smiled.

Scenario 2

Jack came from a single-parent family. His mom and dad divorced when he was young. He lived mainly with his mom, but she spent many hours working, and most days, he came home to an empty house. Vacations didn't get better because that was when he would be shipped to his dad's. He felt like an outcast there because his dad had his new family. Jack felt that his world was dark and lonely. He felt that if he disappeared from the face of the earth, no one would notice and no one would care. The times when his dad could not take him, Jack would be sent to stay with his grandmother. Each Saturday, Jack's grandmother made him go to church with her. She wouldn't hear of it when he told her that he didn't believe in God or in demons. At church, he learned that there was a God, a great and loving God who was his heavenly Father, and that he could talk to Him through prayer. Though Jack felt as if all this had been made up, he was curious. One day, after discovering that he had to stay another month at his grandmother's, Jack went to church with a heart filled with anger and hurt. At church, he went to the front of the chapel to pray with the others. "I don't know if there is a God, but if You are listening, I need help," Jack said silently. Not long after, as he continued to pray, Jack felt warmth come upon his head and travel down his body. His tongue began to move uncontrollably and a feeling of joy and peace came over him, taking away his anger and sadness. Jack then knew that the Holy Spirit was the sign that God had given him to let him know that He did exist and that he was not alone. Even though his parents could not be with him, he had a Father in heaven who is everywhere and who would take care of him.

Scenario 3

There was young sister who attended kindergarten class in church. She learned from her R.E. teacher that it was important to tell our friends the good news of the gospel. The young sister began to testify to her friends at school. She shared about the Bible stories that she learned in R.E. class. One day, when a stranger heard her talk about the Bible stories to her friends, he started to rebuke her and push her to the ground. The young sister was slightly injured, but she did not cry. That evening, her mother noticed her injuries and asked her how she got them. After the young sister explained what had happened, her mother told her that she should no longer preach the gospel. The young sister began to cry. She did not cry because of her injuries. She cried knowing that if she stopped preaching, it would not please God. The young sister continued to tell her friends about God.

Scenario 4

At church, Bro. Chen gave everyone the impression that he was a good Christian who attended services regularly. In fact, he was liked and praised by everyone. At home, however, he was a different person. One day, the pastor and a group of members went to visit Bro. Chen at his home. Bro. Chen was not at home, but as they were about to leave, they noticed Bro. Chen's neighbor and asked if he knew where he was. The neighbor did not know but when he learned that they were from the same church as Bro. Chen, he asked them, "Do you know what your Bro. Chen did? He shifted the boundary of his house. According to the rules, the boundary line is supposed to be here, which means that this longan tree should belong in my land. But your Bro. Chen has shifted the boundary line so that the longan tree has now become his." The neighbor continued to complain of other wrongs that Bro. Chen did.

That night after evening service, the pastor told Bro. Chen to stay behind. The pastor told him that they had met his neighbor. Bro. Chen immediately sat up and said, "What did he say?" The pastor told him what his neighbor had said, and Bro. Chen answered, "That's right. I did shift the boundary. So what?" The pastor explained that it was biblically wrong, and that as believers, we need to have good conduct before unbelievers.

"Your neighbor has also said that you have not greeted him for five years. As believers, we should take the initiative to greet others first."

After much persuasion, Bro. Chen reluctantly said that he would try to start greeting his neighbor.

The next morning, as both Bro. Chen and his neighbor were cleaning their yard, Bro. Chen courageously said, "Good morning." The neighbor, however, replied, "What's wrong? Did you take the wrong medication?"

After service that evening, Bro. Chen was very angry when he told the pastor what happened. The pastor encouraged him not to give up.

One time as Bro. Chen returned from the market, he smiled and waved to his neighbor. So, gradually Bro. Chen and his neighbor began to greet each other. One day, his neighbor went over to Bro. Chen's house. "I'm sorry that we've not greeted each other in the past. It was entirely my fault."

Bro. Chen disagreed and said, "Oh, no, it was my fault."

"So are you going to church tonight?" asked his neighbor.

Bro. Chen replied, "Yes, at 7:30 pm."

"Then can I come, too?" his neighbor asked.

During the service that night, both Bro. Chen and his neighbor sat together. Later, Bro. Chen's neighbor and his entire family got baptized.
